OVERVIEW

Women's Institute of Torah Seminary & College (WITS) offers students a variety of financial aid programs. If you have difficulty in meeting your educational costs at WITS, please email Mrs. Tova Rappaport, trappaport@wits.edu, Director of Financial Aid, to learn about the options available to you. Options may include federal/state grants, scholarships, and loans. The institution may also offer financial assistance in the form of institutional need-based scholarships as long as scholarship funds are available.

Eligibility for federal programs is determined by an evaluation of financial need, based strictly on the formulas developed by the US Department of Education. WITS utilizes the services of Higher Education Compliance and Management, a financial aid consulting firm with many years of experience in the field of financial aid to oversee administration of the federal programs.

APPLYING FOR FINANCIAL AID

FINANCIAL AID NEED

Title IV federal program eligibility is based on a process called Need Analysis. The following is a brief explanation of Need Analysis:

Students under the age of 24 are typically considered financially dependent on their parents. Please carefully read the FAFSA and its instructions, which detail if a student is considered dependent or independent. You may contact the Director of Financial Aid for further explanation, if necessary.

If your status as a student is considered to be dependent on your parents, an expected parental contribution is determined. This is the amount that your parents are expected to pay for your college education, based on their income and available assets. Allowances are made for expenses such as living allowance based on family size, taxes paid, and the number of children in college.

You, as the student, are expected to contribute towards your education, using your earnings, if applicable. Your assets (such as savings) are generally considered to be available for the purpose of your education and are expected to be divided among your years of post-secondary education. The Parental Contribution, where applicable, is added to the Student Contribution to yield the Expected Family Contribution (EFC).

Your student budget, or cost of education, is calculated based on tuition and fees plus a standard allowance for living expenses, which depends on whether you live with your parents or have other arrangements. The EFC is then subtracted from your total budget. The result is known as your “need.” The concept of need is the foundation of financial aid. Students who exhibit need and apply on time may be eligible for aid.

FEDERAL AID

The Federal Pell Grant Program provides grants to undergraduate students. These grants do not have to be repaid. The program is an “entitlement,” which means that each eligible student who attends an eligible institution and submits a FAFSA application on time may receive a Federal Pell Grant. Grants for 2022-2023 may increase to a maximum of $6,495* annually based on the EFC generated by the federally mandated formula and the number of credits a student is taking.

In order to qualify for federal financial aid programs, you must:

- Be enrolled in an eligible program
- Be a US citizen, permanent resident of the US, or eligible non-citizen
- Utilize all assistance funds for education-related expenses
- Have fulfilled Selective Service registration requirements
- Maintain satisfactory progress toward completion of a program of study
- Be a high school graduate or the recognized equivalent
- Sign the certification statement that you do not owe a refund to any Title IV program and are not in default on any Title IV loan. The certification is located in step seven of the FAFSA.

You may be required to supply additional documentation, such as an IRS Tax Return and Verification Worksheet, to verify the information supplied on the FAFSA. It is highly recommended to use the Data Retrieval Tool (DRT) option to enter your financial information. This can be done by clicking the “link to IRS” button when filling out the FAFSA. Awards are made for one academic year at a time and are not automatically renewable. You must reapply each year by resubmitting a FAFSA before the appropriate deadline.

APPLICATION DEADLINE

The FAFSA may be submitted until June 30th of the year for which you are applying (e.g., the deadline for the 2022-2023 academic year is June 30, 2023). However, you are urged to submit your application as early as possible. Late submissions may delay the processing of your application. More importantly, the funds for some programs are limited and will be distributed with priority given to those students who submit their application in a timely fashion. FAFSA applications must be submitted by March 1st for the following academic year in order to be eligible for Maryland state financial aid programs.

Please note that you may be required to update certain types of information entered on your application, i.e. dependency status, household size, and number of family members enrolled in post-secondary education. Be sure to discuss any such changes with the Financial Aid Office.

Financial aid disbursements in the Federal Pell Grant Program are scheduled at the beginning of each semester (Fall, Spring, and Summer or Summer, Fall and Spring) provided that all paperwork has been submitted and is complete. A student generally receives half of her scheduled award during the first semester and the second half during the second semester. Summer payments are equal to a semester payment. Students whose paperwork is completed during the second semester may be paid retroactively for the first semester.

Payments from the Federal Pell Grant Program will either be made by credit to your tuition account or by direct disbursement to you. You will be informed of the expected amount of these payments. You may view your tuition records on your student Populi account under Financial, student view.

PROFESSIONAL JUDGEMENT PROCEDURES

When determining a student's eligibility for Title IV aid, the Director of Financial Aid may use "Professional Judgement" for expenses that are beyond those considered in the formula. This process can be initiated by student request after the student's initial eligibility has been determined.

In the case of "Professional Judgement", the student and her parent must submit documentation of the additional expenses, and/or information, such as tuition payments for the student's siblings in elementary and/or high school, number in the household attending college or the student's sibling(s) attending unaccredited colleges, unusually high out-of-pocket medical expenses, or other unusual expenses or circumstances (such as loss of income). Upon review of the documentation, a determination is made by the Director of Financial Aid concerning the acceptability of the circumstances and the adequacy of the supporting documentation. If the circumstance and documentation are approved, an adjustment is sent to the Central Processing System and a new EFC (Expected Family Contribution) is calculated for the student. The student's awards are then calculated based on the new EFC.

In addition, rare and unusual family circumstances may warrant the Director of Financial Aid to do a "Dependency Override" that allows her to consider a student independent for financial aid purposes. Examples of unusual circumstances would include abandonment by parents, and/or an abusive family environment that threatens the student's health or safety.

Any student who thinks she qualifies for either Professional Judgment or for a Dependency Override may contact the Director of Financial Aid, trappaport@wits.edu. All decisions regarding this will be determined by individual case.

MARYLAND STATE AID

The State of Maryland offers need-based and merit-based scholarships, grants, and awards for Maryland residents (if you are a dependent, your parents must be Maryland residents as well). There are also scholarships for specific fields and populations. To learn about Maryland state financial aid programs, visit <http://mhec.maryland.gov/preparing/Pages/FinancialAid/index.aspx>.

Once you have filed the FAFSA and indicated a Maryland state school, you will be automatically considered for many state financial aid programs. However, some programs require additional applications. For more information on specific programs, visit <http://mhec.maryland.gov/preparing/Pages/FinancialAid/descriptions.aspx> and <http://mhec.maryland.gov/preparing/Pages/College411/finassisttoc.aspx>.

The deadline to file your FAFSA in order to be considered for state awards for the following academic year is March 1st.

If you are enrolled in the ISAP option, you may be eligible for state awards.

To accept your Maryland State awards, you must log in to the Maryland State online financial assistance site, MDCAPS, at <https://mdcaps.mhec.state.md.us>. You will be required to create a User ID and password. You will be sent an email requiring you to activate your account in MDCAPS, after which you may log in. There is a user's manual at the top of the home page for your use in accepting your award. There is also a link to Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) on the login page. If you do not accept your awards, you will lose them.

Legislative awards are need-based and/or merit-based depending upon the specific award. These awards have a separate application process and may have different deadlines. See the above links and contact the offices of your state senators and delegates for more information.

INSTITUTIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS

Institutional scholarship funds are available to students (excluding ISAP students) who have exhausted all other avenues of assistance and are still unable to meet their cost of attendance.
